Search Topic Information:

I need a thimble that is fabricated from a rigid material and extends past the first knuckle of a user's finger so as to prevent bending of the finger and keeping the finger substantially straight. The thimble has indents so as to accept pins or needles and are disposed along the length of the thimble. The ends of the thimble may be open ended (i.e., not closed at the figertip).

please refer to the claims as presented electronically (i.e., eDan).
